Manager's New Look Budget Indicates $1 Tax Increase

Manager Richard Bowen unveiled the first true "manager's budget" in the history of the new charter and predicted that what he recommends will necessitate a $1 increase in the present $33 tax rate.

In previous years no budget has come out of Town Hall until after the Finance Committee has acted upon it. What was introduced last week is, however, Bowen's budget, developed in discussion and pruning sessions with department heads and prepared for Town Meeting.

It, along with any forthcoming Finance Committee recommendations, is what voters will be asked to consider in March.

What it boils down to is a total budget of $5,368,991, an increase of $354,057 over that adopted in 1964.

Some downward revision will be possible now that the School Department has come up with a budget calling for a proposed increase of only $159,338. Bowen had allowed for a $213,945 increase in making his tabulations.

The manager is supporting an outlay of $875,000 for capital improvements, the biggest item a $340,000 addition to Memorial Hall Library which is to be supported by $85,000 in federal aid. Other items, public works garage, $145,000; a police station, $150,000; and a fire station for West Andover, $150,000.

Budgeted is a 5 per cent pay increase for town employees, but this figure is a precaution, not an out and out proposal. The manager will not set any firm recommendation for a pay increase until consultants now studying the town's classification and compensation plans complete their work.

The Town Employees Assoc. will not file a special article relative to salaries, but will wait to see what the manager's comes up with in his first year on the job.

The '65 budget, says Bowen, anticipates all regular charges to the town, all estimated operating expenses and all possible revenue. And under the heading of "revenue" this year comes the cash surplus which has been used in previous years to hold the tax rate in line.

If citizens want to pass special money articles, they will have to accept the tax increase to support them. This, in effect, is what Bowen said in his presentation to the Board of Selectmen.

"The practice of financing warrant appropriation articles proposed by the Town administration or private citizens from 'available funds' ... could not help but produce a feeling that project was no direct burden to the taxpayers," Bowen explains.

"The amount of surplus proposed for use in 1965 is considerably higher than the amounts used in previous years ($450,000)," he continued. Such use, said Bowen is justified if it does not deplete the account for the sake of maintaining the town's credit.

Centralized Accounting Bowen Topic

Being very careful to sidestep any real discussion of a future for centralized purchasing, school officials sat down Tuesday with Town Manager Richard Bowen to discuss the planned for automation of municipal accounting.

Bowen described the general process that is to be involved in routing a purchase order in and out of Town Hall for posting. He discussed also the value of financial data that will be available as a by-product of semi-automation, pointing out that department heads will be perpetually abreast of their department's financial condition.

The meeting ended with School Committee members generally expressing the feeling that the talk had eliminated some of their concern about automation giving Town Hall a toe hole for interference with school finances. Committee-man William Doherty asked the manager point blank: "Is it the manager's intent to help the School Department or hamstring it?"

Bowen told the group that basic to a centralized accounting system is the assumption that for every municipal financial transaction there must be written authorization. Except in the case of genuine emergencies i.e. boiler breakdowns, vehicular breakdowns etc.) this would mean that purchasing would have to be planned far enough ahead to permit the system to work, he said.

Settled at Tuesday's meet. was the question of who should budget for a piece of interim book-keeping equipment offered the School Department by the Board of Selectmen.

In a legal opinion, Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien ruled that the machine should be leased through the manager's office in view of his charter responsibilities for purchasing. Up to now the item has

James D. Wilson, Andover March of Dimes campaign director, reports that 12,000 March of Dimes solicitation letters have been mailed to businesses and industries in Essex County. Broad support is sought for a program of research into the nature and causes of birth defects.

The Arlington Trust Co. reports that its deposits now total $69,871,444 and that its total resources are $79,155,185. Both figures are the highest ever reported in the bank's history.

Nearly 30 million sq. feet of new construction valued at more than $325 million has lifted New England's 1964 construction level to record heights, and '65 predictions look even better, according to the New England Council. A 5 per cent increase to $815 million is estimated for 1965.

WILLIAM STEWART Stewart Bid Made Formal

Incumbent William Stewart formally announced this week his candidacy for a third three-year term with the Board of Selectmen. Now vice chairman of the five-man board, Stewart served as secretary until the new post was created last year to permit the policy makers to function more effectively in the chairman's absence.

Stewart, a resident of Andover for 25 years, is a partner in the firm of Stewart and Thurston Co., industrial engineering and cost consulting experts, with offices on Main St.

He is a graduate of Lawrence public schools and of Lowell

Textile School. Prior to the formation of his present business, he was employed in the production engineering department of American Woolen Co. and was later superintendent of that company's Kennebec plant.

In 1951 Stewart served as consultant in the Washington Office of Price Stabilization, and later took charge of accounting for the agency's operation in New England.

Formerly a member of the Board of Assessors and a trustee at West Parish Church, Stewart is now vice president of the Andover Council of Churches. He is a former officer and coach for the Church Baseball League and is a member of Waterville Lodge #33, A.F. & A.M.

He is married to the former Gertrude A. Smith, R.N., a local public school nurse. The couple has two children, Bruce, who is associated with the Monarch of Springfield Insurance Co., and Marjorie, now Mrs. Wayne Newton of Lawrence.

Contemporary Art At P. A. Gallery

On exhibition at the Addison Gallery of American Art are items of Contemporary British Painting and Sculpture from the Collection of Albright-Knox Art Gallery as special loans.

They will be on view until Feb. 15 on the following schedule: Monday - Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 2:30 - 5 p.m.

Teacher Named To Center Job

She has taught nursery classes at Pike School and the Belmont Day School and elementary grades at the Fay School in Southbury and Milton Academy.

The program she heads is offered at Burke Memorial Hospital. Her services are to be supported by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health in which the Guidance Center serves as an area community mental health center.

Gratitude is a burden upon an imperfect nature.

Lord Chesterfield

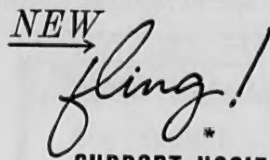

by: Paul Upson, R. Ph.

If you're just sitting around doing nothing better to do, you might dream up a cure for the common cold. Though not a killing disease, the cold causes more discomfort and annoyance to more people than any disease that comes to mind.

Colds are caused by an influenza virus; women catch them more often than men and age apparently has little effect, at least between the late teens and forty. A sufferer by a cold sufferer will fill the air in a room with countless thousands of floating droplets that will not totally disperse for several hours of an hour.

THERE IS NOTHING IN THE BUDGET for replacing this weary Town Hall, but the subject of leasing space for municipal departments in the planned Standard International Building to be built at Elm Square is under discussion. If economical, it could come before Town Meeting as a special warrant article.

Leasing May Be Way Out For Town Hall Problem

The possibility of solving the question of what to do about Town Hall has taken a new turn, with officials considering the leasing of quarters for municipal services.

An eight-member committee is already at work to pin down what it would cost to take two local developers up on their proposal that Town Hall occupy the lower floors of the Standard International Building which is to go up on a site in Elm Square. Construction is to begin this spring.

John Davidson and Phideas Dantos, owners of the land now occupied by the former Square and Compass Club, have suggested to the Board of Selectmen that the modern, elevator, air-conditioned building they plan to erect could double as a Town Hall.

Manager Richard Bowen has estimated that it would take three of the 7,000 sq. ft. floors proposed to house town departments which would mean taking the height issue to the Board of Appeals. Present regulations prevent the construction of any building higher than three floors in Andover without a variance.

In giving consideration to the proposal, the Board of Selectmen said it was influenced by the fact that the Planning Board's consultant had made such a suggestion earlier.

"The whole thing hinges on the cost," Chairman Philip K. Allen said Monday, pointing out that Town Council has already reviewed the plan and found no legal barrier to a lease arrangement. There are communities that already lease office space, the chairman said.

If the citizen-committee decides that the proposal is an "economic feasibility", an article will be in the warrant for Town Meeting to authorize the leasing. A report is to be made by Feb. 8.

On the committee, whose judgment is to be final, are Eugene Bernardin, Jr., chairman of the Chamber of Commerce parking survey committee; Mrs. Douglas Dunbar, president of the League of Women Voters; Charles Dunklee, executive director of Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce; Leslie Hutchinson, president of the Bay State Merchants National Bank; Robert Neikirk, president of the Taxpayers Assoc.; Atty. Richard Sullivan; and James Trenholm, a member of the Planning Board. The appointment of Former Selectman Russell Doyle, out of town and unreachable, had not been confirmed.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Early Compromises

Every youngster who lifts a package of gum on his way to school or helps himself to the ballpoint pens at the paper store is not headed for a life of crime. Even if he — or she — becomes involved with petty thievery at a more sophisticated level, taking jewelry and clothing for the sport of it can be assumed he will likely sidestep ultimate degradation.

But the youth who shoplifts may be well on his way to a life of compromises, and this is what makes the volume and type of teenage pilfering reported in Andover significant.

It is customary in a small community, one seldom touched by big crime, to live comfortably with the delusion that the problems of the times will invariably find mass respectability a formidable barrier. The frequency with which this barrier proves inadequate is seldom known outside the confines of the police department, the cleric's office or the social worker's file. Consequently it is not unusual that some should consider the sort of report printed by the Townsman two weeks ago on the subject of teenage shoplifting "exaggerated" . . . Andover has more reason than many a town to feel "It can't happen here."

Admittedly, there are no statistics, no neat records on apprehended shoplifters to factually support the contention of worried merchants that juvenile pilferage has taken on a new dimension, and that it should not be ignored. Those who want to minimize it, want to measure it in terms of their own dollar and cent losses. Those who want the problem recognized are more concerned that the young people involved be made to see that shoplifting is a crime, not a game.

There may be more reason than embarrassed parents know for the fact that a great many young people do not regard petty thievery as stealing — and that this lack of regard for the possessions and rights of others is sometimes translated into property destruction. It must be difficult for the youngster who sees his father assemble a hi-fi set or make an addition to his home with items "borrowed" from his employer to focus on a sharp distinction between right and wrong.

We applaud the Chamber of Commerce for its early fall inclination to pull school, church and community leaders into open discussion of this particular juvenile problem in an attempt to formulate an all-out attack on the attitudes that encourage it. We urge such a move.

Some uniformity of opinion on how youngsters who are caught stealing should be handled — a merchants' policy that would be as much concerned with the welfare of the youngsters as the protection of inventory — should be formulated. Police and most merchants agree that just seeing merchandise is returned to the shelf is in many cases too little "punishment" to be corrective.

Teenage shoplifting is not a major law enforcement problem in Andover, but it does happen. Those involved rarely steal to satisfy a physical need.

It is this question of motivation that needs to be examined before the business community decides whether or not it is profitable — for everyone — to continue with the present "under the rug" approach to dealing with young shoplifters.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman: "Several loud 'Bravos' for your editorial, 'Bickering A Deterrent', in your issue of Jan. 14. For some strange reason, too many school committeemen, once they are elected, appear to forget that they are citizens and representatives of this community. They quickly learn to resent any suggestion of cooperation with any other town department or any criticism of their performance, no matter how flagrantly adverse to the town interest that performance may be.

"Your reference to 'a lay-committee recommendation' is an excellent case in point. The school committee literally fumed when that committee's report was published and one member was heard to remark that the make-up of the committee was 'stacked' against the school committee. . . .

"Yet, I find it difficult to criticize the school committee too severely in view of the rather lethargic attitude which the Town has taken. In the past, it has appeared to reward by re-election those who have shown little interest in the Town welfare. One member has, consistently, recommended pay increases substantially greater than the teachers and employees have asked for. Yet he is re-elected. . . .

"The sooner the citizens of Andover elect school committeemen who can take a balanced position between Town and School System, . . . who will meet Dr. Conant's view that a school system's directors be non-educators, and who will insist that the educators do their jobs thoroughly, the sooner the Town will stop the 'bickering' to which you refer and the sooner the Town will get 'the best school system its residents are in a position to buy.'"

Henry M. Wolfson

FOR ITS ANNIVERSARY, the 20th, the United Nations has designated this the symbol for 1965, the International Cooperation Year. ICY commemorates the signing of the United Nations Charter in San Francisco on June 26, 1945.

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago — January, 1890

The number of births in town in 1889 was 130; 58 males and 72 females. In 1888 there were 61 males and 50 females. The result this year is something uncommon, the Town Clerk not recollecting a year before when the females outnumbered the males.

Seventy-two arrests were made by Chief-of-Police Cheever last year.

The difficulties between Phillips Exeter and Phillips Andover Academies which prevented the annual football game last fall, and seemed likely to prevent all future contests between the two schools, is in a fair way to be settled in an amicable manner. The first overtures for an agreement to govern the conduct of students at such contests came from Andover today. The following agreement was signed: "We, the students of Phillips Andover and Exeter Academies do hereby agree that in any athletic contest between the two academies, the students of the home academy will not under any circumstances go to the station or follow or molest in any way the members of the visiting academy. . . ."

J. Newton Cole was elected superintendent of the Free Church Sabbath School Sunday.

50 Years Ago — January, 1915

William Deyermund, who went to Canada last week to enlist in the British army, came back Thursday night to his home on Whittier St. to wait until further arrangements could be made from the war office for his enlistment.

On Thursday the Andover Historical Society will present the genuine and only Jarley's unrivalled collection of wax works. Jarley is the delight of the rich and poor, the proud and humble. Be in time, because you know wax works refine the mind, cultivate the taste and enlarge the sphere of human understanding. The price of admission: 35 cents.

You can now buy a dollar calendar for 25 cents at the Bookstore. Tomorrow you can buy it for 24 cents, this means your choice, and the next day for 23 cents and so on. Under the circumstances it will be possible for you to buy a dollar calendar for a cent, twenty-four buying days from this. Probably it will be worth your while not to wait too long.

The ice crop is harvested so far as Andover is concerned. The public is to be congratulated on the fact that it is a full harvest of excellent ice, thus making sure a satisfactory service next summer.

25 Years Ago — January, 1940

Former police officer William R. Shaw yesterday afternoon took out papers for selectman and assessor in which race he will oppose the present selectmen, Howell F. Shepard and P. LeRoy Wilson. Last June Officer Shaw was removed from the force by the Selectmen following an accident in Shaw-sheen Village.

Mrs. Leon Hardy of River Rd. and Mrs. Renwick Henderson of Haggett's Pond Rd. recently visited their mother in Brookline, Mass.

Andover has saved money the past year, and what is more important, the town has paved the way for annual departmental savings which will be reflected principally in the Board of Public Works budget this year. With requests for special expenditures apparently to be at a point well below those for the past few years, it is not too much to hope that Andover's tax rate will show a reduction in 1940, unless some unforeseen complications arise. . . .

Remember the days of the early 30's when town meetings were just a scramble out of which an unusually large amount of unwise actions came? Those were the days when one clique wanted expenditures regardless of the amount and purpose, and when another clique was against expenditures regardless of the desirability of them. That has all changed. Town officials and the Taxpayers' Assoc. are more than ever before working together for the best interests of the town.

10 Years Ago — January, 1955

All previous records for the building of new homes in Andover were broken last year when the permits for 192 new dwellings were issued. The previous high mark was 152 new residences in 1953.

Miss Betty Buchan of Duxbury, formerly associate editor of the Townsman, has been elected to represent the Massachusetts Industrial Editors' Assn. at the conference of the International Council of Industrial Editors to be held in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Capital expenditures facing the town are going to cost about a million dollars a year for the next 10 years, George Grant, president of the Andover Taxpayers Assoc. told members of the Ballardvale PTA at a meeting this week. He asked serious consideration for the Townsman's suggestion to increase all elementary schools to eight grades, do away with the junior high school and give the present junior and senior high school buildings over to a four-year high school.

A double town meeting will be held in March to allow voters more time to analyze and consider the large number of articles totalling expenditures of about $3,500,000 which are expected to come up for action.

Story Hours

Story hour on Jan. 21 at 3:30 p.m. centers around India with three tales of animals from the folklore of that country. The stories are those of the monkey and the crocodile, of the rhinoceros, and of a deer. These tales have been handed down from grandparent to parent to the children and are still being listened to by children in India.

Next week's story hour on Thursday, Jan. 28, will have as its theme Brave Hearts. The featured story is to be Henry Beston's tale, "The Brave Grenadier."

Littlest Listeners

The Squirrels will gather in the children's room for their regular morning meeting at 10 a.m. on Jan. 26. Those who have not yet had a chance to see the Mary Poppins doll on display could perhaps persuade their chauffeurs to deliver them to Memorial Hall Library a little bit early so they can have a good look! Mary Poppins is visiting the children's room through the courtesy of Mrs. Edith Smith who made her from whole cloth as it were. The doll is beautifully dressed, complete to high button shoes and a flower bedecked hat. And she carries her own small satchel and umbrella.

At Ballardvale branch, Littlest Listeners will have their program with Mrs. MacCausland on Thursday morning, Jan. 28, at 10 o'clock.

Book Display

Books from the adult collection of particular interest to the town are on display in the main reading room, according to Miss Nancy Pendlebury, young adult librarian. Many of the titles this week are suggested for the high school age in a wonderfully varied bibliography recently received at Memorial Hall Library called BOOKS FOR YOU. Prepared by the National Council of Teachers of English, it is annotated for young adults and others who enjoy the modern classics and a wide selection of readable books about people and events. The list includes stories, novels, historical fiction and the present and past in non-fiction as well.

Additional titles from BOOKS FOR YOU will be found in the special corner opposite the college catalogs where the regular Young Adult collection has just been refurnished and reshelfed.

Twelve national marketing strategists will reveal management-tested techniques designed to increase sales during the 26th annual New England Sales & Marketing Conference and 48th annual Sales Rally in Boston's Statler-Hilton Jan. 22 and 23. Gilbert H. Hood, Jr., president, Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, will be the keynote.

Opening Saturday at the Institute of Contemporary Art, 100 Newbury St., Boston, is an exhibition called "Corporations Collect", demonstrating the extent to which art has made its way into the business environment. Being shown are paintings and sculpture on loan from both U. S. and Canadian corporations.

An illustrated lecture on "Gardens and Plants in South America" will be presented by Dr. Harriet Creighton of the botany department of Wellesley College at Horticultural Hall, Jan. 24 at 3 p.m. Free to members, a small fee for others.

The Massachusetts Dairy Process contest for 1965 will be held at Amherst Jan. 27 in conjunction with the Annual Dairy Farmers Seminar Program and Banquet. The Princess selected will enter competition for the national dairy princess title in June, 1966. Unmarried girls 17-25 who live on a dairy farm, or have equivalent dairy farm background may enter.

Chamber Adds Rev. McGuire To Its Board

In keeping with its expanded philosophy on the role of a Chamber of Commerce, the local chamber has named Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., pastor of St. Augustine's Church to the board of directors.

He fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles Nigrelli.

In other action, the organization has made Eugene A. Bernardin, Jr. chairman of a standing three-man parking committee to work with the Andover Planning Board as advisors on local parking problems. Serving with him will be Austin Anderson and Harry M. Godden.

This committee was set up in response to a suggestion from the town manager that this type of cooperation was more in line with his thinking on the solution on parking needs than the parking commission suggested by a Chamber committee following a survey of downtown conditions.

John M. Hewitt is heading a booklet committee cooperating with the Andover Newcomers Club in studying the need for a "fact booklet" about Andover.

A New Face . . .

The ANDOVER RECREATION CENTER has been in operation for a long, long time. In 1916, when they first opened their doors, there were only four lanes. Later, they moved to the location they now occupy — 34 Park Street. At this time they doubled on size — to eight lanes. And they also had ping pong and billiards. Now up to fifteen lanes for your bowling pleasure, the renovated building features air conditioning and four new billiard tables. The new lanes were made fully automatic in 1956. Edward Jones, an Andover resident, is always interested in better serving the community, and his modernization program reflects his pride in his community. If you would like to join a league or form your own league, phone 475-9706, and all the necessary information will be yours. There are junior leagues on Saturdays for the young set. Every member of the family should enjoy this modern sport. For health and recreation, bowl at the ANDOVER RECREATION CENTER, 24 Park Street.

A Fiendish Plot . . .

There has never been a more fiendish plot perpetrated on the American consumer than that of the packaging industry when they designed wax cartons and left them in the super market. Has anyone ever gotten one of these devices from the supermarket to their home without leaking half of the milk? No! Has anyone ever clutched at a falling parcel and squeezed the wax carton right in the middle? You can count on it. Have you ever opened one without thinking of grapefruit? No. How can the American Consumer strike back at this evil plot? Call 687-7178 and voice your indignation freely. These folks will be glad to listen to you. That number belongs to FINDEISEN'S FARMS. They deliver in good sensible glass containers. Old Fashioned? No, milk. And right to your doorstep. No braving the elements and no leaky wax cartons dripping down your overcoat. TODAY! REBEL! Call 687-7178. Don't let wax cartons drive you to distraction.

No Problem . . .

It's no problem at all when your floors are starting to look like last year's roller derby headquarters. All you have to do is dial 683-3151 and talk to either Ben Greska or Dick Trask. They are the genial gents who run the show at 278 South Broadway, Lawrence. And there is nothing they don't know about flooring material, be it vinyl tile or 100% wool. The LAWRENCE RUG AND LINOLEUM COMPANY, INC., is known for its excellent reputation for fair dealing and their insistence on complete customer satisfaction. And there is no problem that should really concern you too much. For by dialing that number, you'll have either Ben or Dick stopping by to tell you exactly what you need and how much it will cost. You haven't even left your doorstep. And there is NO obligation for this service. If you decide you'd like the LAWRENCE RUG AND LINOLEUM folks to do the job, Trained installers with complete insurance coverage do the job. The only time you'd have a problem is if you went to someone else. But, is there anyone else?

ANDOVER MAN ART GRADUATE

"Let There Be Light"

"Let there be light", said Sam DiPrima and Sam Froman. Julian Schwartz pulled the switch and the beautiful headquarters of the MID CITY SUPPLY Inc., was indeed bathed in light. Light from hundreds of fixtures hung for display. The boys at 92 Broadway, Lawrence, know how difficult it is for anyone to select a light fixture from a catalog, so they made their new showroom a showplace. Fixtures for every room of your home are on display. Guess work is eliminated. AT MID CITY SUPPLY you see what you are purchasing, and you know what you've got. This convenience was designed into the new showroom with your convenience in mind. And when the time comes for you to decorate your home with a new fixture, visit MID CITY SUPPLY. There you'll find all the famous names of lighting — and on display where most of them can be lit for an actual idea of what they'll be like . . . in your home. Visit them soon.

Not Over Yet . . .

There is still plenty of snow left for us lucky folks. And if your snow blower did not function quite like it should have the last time you cleaned your walk, better call in the experts and get it fixed before the next snows. By dialing 686-4743, your machine will be picked up and delivered back to you in tip-top shape. That's because the repair men at MEIER'S shop on 58 Berkeley Street, Lawrence are experts in every brand of machine. MEIER'S is one of the few people who, when selling a snow thrower — be it Ariens, Snow-Bird, Toro, Etc., — can give a year's guarantee with the machine. He can do this because he has the largest, most modern service department in the area. And it's not too early to think of having that lawn mower picked up and put into shape. Then, when you want it, MEIER'S will deliver it in the best condition possible. When your problem is a balky machine, whether it is a lawn mower or a snow thrower, call in the experts from MEIER'S, Inc. You'll be happier with guaranteed repairs from MEIER'S.

Lively Races Are In Sight For Election

Contests have developed for openings on the School Committee and for the post of Town Moderator, but incumbents on the Board of Selectmen are still without competition for the March election.

As of Wednesday a.m., three residents had officially declared themselves candidates for the School Committee: Mrs. Milton (Virginia) Cole, Dr. Daniel Frishman and Dr. Louis J. Gilbiati.

Papers were also taken out by Irving Newman, Simeon LeGendre and Edmond Sullivan, Jr., all prospective candidates for the same two School Committee seats.

There will be plenty of competition for the post of Moderator if all who have taken papers from the clerk's office file for the job being vacated by Atty. Charles Hatch. In line for the race are Rep. Arthur Williams, Allen Copeland, William H. Wilson and Jerald M. Lewis.

Papers have also been taken out by John G. McIntosh, a candidate for the Andover Housing Authority.

To date no one has indicated any intention of running against Selectmen Roger Collins and William Stewart who are trying for re-election.

Standard International Corp. last week elected Warren S. Cooper, treasurer and Sol Sackel, marketing-public relations director as vice presidents. Cooper, a resident of Andover, came to Standard a year ago after 11 years with a Springfield accounting firm. Sackel, formerly director of advertising for Bolta Co., was president of Sackel-Jackson (advertising) Co., Boston, shortly before joining Standard.

Copies of the Town manager's budget are available at the Town Clerk's office in Town Hall and at Memorial Hall Library for those who wish to study its details.

Joseph C. O'Hara has been denied approval by the Zoning Board of Appeals for his plan to convert property at 18 Lincoln St. into a two-family house. Dismissing O'Hara's report that the house was once used for two families, the board said that the immediate area is now developed as a single-residence area and favored preserving this status.

The Zoning Board has approved a petition from Mrs. Lucienne Saegaert, a New York businesswoman, for permission to add three rooms to her summer home off Webster St. on an unaccepted way. She plans to retire to Andover with her sister, now an interpreter for the United Nations.

Andover Native, Bob Shann has been signed by the Philadelphia Eagle Football Club. The Boston College athlete was the Eagles' 30th draft choice.

Frederick Fitzgerald reported to the congregation on progress in ecumenical relations. He referred to meetings held with St. Patrick's Church in Lawrence at which he said laymen attending discussed numerous topics in a candid manner.

Committee reports were heard from Dr. Norman Rockwood, Deacons; Margaret Craig, Social Action Committee; Mavis Rockwood, Missions Committee; Robert Kent, building improvement program and Rolling Ridge conference; and Harriet Newman, Christian Education Committee.

The following officers and committee members were elected: Moderator, Walter S. Downs; Vice Moderator, Everett Gorrie; Clerk, Mrs. Robert McAnern; Treasurer, Robert P. Mrs. White Heads March

Mrs. Gordon White, Hidden Rd., is Andover Mothers' March chairman for the 1965 drive, it was announced today by James D. Wilson, Andover campaign director. "How many of our children have to die, how many more must be crippled in body or retarded in mind, how many more millions of parents must undergo this tragic ordeal before we begin to look on birth defects as a national emergency?"

Mrs. White asked these searching questions today as she urged the citizens of Andover to contribute to the traditional Mothers' March on birth defects on Sunday, January 31, from 1:00-5:00 p.m. "Women, and especially mothers, should be outraged by the fact that most Americans are apparently unaware or indifferent to the birth of an estimated 8,260 babies that will be born with serious birth defects this year in (Continued on Page Eight)

Town Considers Afresh The Fate Of Town Hall

(A Townsman News Feature)

A mire of mis-information, suspicions and innuendos developed this week as officials and kibitzers moved to assess and dissect the proposal made by Danton Realty Trust that the town of Andover lease space in its $1 million Standard International Building.

Developers John Davidson and Phideas Dantos and Town Manager Richard Bowen added to the confusion by reworking their figures on space and cost estimates, bringing the gross per square foot offer to $2.30 by mid-week.

ROGER W. COLLINS

Collins Makes Election Bid

Roger W. Collins, 50 Maple Ave., a state parole agent for the Division of Youth Service, has announced that he is a candidate for re-election to the Board of Selectman for a three year term. He is presently filling out the final year of the unexpired term of former Selectman B. Allen Rowland.

A native of Andover and educated in Andover Schools, Collins graduated from Hebron Academy, received his BA degree from Arizona State University and did graduate work at the University of Arizona.

During World War II, he served with the Army in the European theater.

Collins, a former teacher of government and history, is president of Andover Monument Co. He is a member of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, past president of the Andover Male Choir, a former member of the (Continued on Page 15)

And the eight-member committee appointed by the Board of Selectmen to make a decision on the proposal by Feb. 8, tripped over semantics in attempting to narrow the confines of their two-week inquiry. They were charged with making a recommendation based on "economic feasibility."

This does not mean, said Davidson this week, that the committee is bound to decide whether the principal of leasing appeals to them, whether there might be legal complications for the municipality, whether the Legislature would push the necessary bill through in time for Danton's spring ground breaking schedule, whether the architecture of the new building is good for a town hall or whether, if the town is to lease, it should put the whole proposition out for bids. All the committee is supposed to do, says Davidson, is decide if the lease plan offered is a practical solution to the town's need for improved quarters.

The committee, on the other hand, has drawn a broader base for itself. Meeting Tuesday, it responded (almost in toto) to Chairman Robert Neikirk's suggestion that if the group is to come up with a money answer it must consider four basic points and various alternatives:

1. Establish that there is a need, which Neikirk admits is not too difficult considering that for at least 20 years other boards and committees have ruled that Town Hall, as it is, has outgrown its usefulness.
2. Establish the scope of the space needs.
3. Consider the various means by which the space needs can be (Continued on Page 14)

Lively Races Are In Sight For Election

Contests have developed for openings on the School Committee and for the post of Town Moderator, but incumbents on the Board of Selectmen are still without competition for the March election.

As of Wednesday a.m., three residents had officially declared themselves candidates for the School Committee: Mrs. Milton (Virginia) Cole, Dr. Daniel Frishman and Dr. Louis J. Gilblati.

Papers were also taken out by Irving Newman, Simeon LeGendre and Edmond Sullivan, Jr., all prospective candidates for the same two School Committee seats.

There will be plenty of competition for the post of Moderator if all who have taken papers from the clerk's office file for the job being vacated by Atty. Charles Hatch. In line for the race are Rep. Arthur Williams, Allen Copeland, William H. Wilson and Gerald M. Lewis.

Papers have also been taken out by John G. McIntosh, a candidate for the Andover Housing Authority.

To date no one has indicated any intention of running against Selectmen Roger Collins and William Stewart who are trying for re-election.
